Dear Harvinder

My client was a farmer who had contracted the services of a building firm to undertake a series of works on his farm totalling costs of around £109,000.00. After completion of the works the claimants alleged that there was an outstanding bill. However, my client felt that he had paid them in full and there were no monies outstanding.

From the pleadings you will recall that this had become a very protracted and acrimonious dispute, the level of stress on my client was phenomenal, which was compounded by the fact that his wife is quite ill and the credit crunch has affected his trade.

I genuinely believe that if it wasn't for your professionalism and assistance, the parties would not have settled on the day. My client informed me that he was extremely pleased with the outcome and appreciated that it was a financial risk proceeding with court action with the possibility that he would have ended up paying significantly more than the settlement figure.

I will certainly recommend you to other solicitors and contact you again in the future in connection with other matters. Thank you again for your assistance.

Yours sincerely
